VIA : Director of Training

SUBJ: Central Intelligence Agency, Comments concerning

- 1. On 25 August 1952 I reported to this Agency from a tackground of 16 years of neval service, including 32 years of Mawai Intelligence training and experience. I believe, therefore, that I have some unterstanding of and sympathy for the special problems and difficulties of intelligence work. I came by my own request, strongly metivated by the mission assigned to this Agency, and enthusiastic for the opportunity to contribute toward the fulfillment of this mission.
- 2. How, after 3 months, I am leaving the Agency at my own request, thoroughly disillusioned, and with my confidence in the Agenty's at lit; to perform its mission destroyed.
- 3. By personal problem is relatively unimportant and, is any case, has been solved by my leaving the Agency. Even the fate of the project to which I was assigned, though important, would not justify this I steriff this project were an exception to am otherwise healthy organization. But I believe that my experience was typical enough to indicate the semething is seriously wrong with Central Intelligence Agency. In my case, I believe that it may be of some concern to the Director that a service officer, reporting to this Agency at his sum request and ath considerable motivation, can have the Agency in 3 months! time con letting distillusioned.
- h. My comments, from 3 months' experience within one area on his Agency's activities, obviously cannot extend to recommending and blue-printing a corrective program for Central Intelligence Agency. Rather I consider that my comments may serve to show weaknesses which should be considered in planning effective corrective action.

5. My comments follows

a) Delays in obtaining decisions and action are appelling. This is probably the largest single cause of peor morals and last metivation in this organization. These delays I would estimate result in no less than 10 times as much lost time as in another.

emparable government organisation. And such delays exist appare independent of the type of action or decision required, from an operational decision to the procurement of an item of equipment of the presenting of a travel claim. And I believe that the cause is desper than a merely overworked or inefficient personnel.

- b) Each office, division, branch, unit of any kind shoul have a clearly written mission, steaming initially from the agency's everall mission. Each unit's mission should be part of and contribute te that of its most superior. And such mait should have a clear understanding of its responsibilities and authority, with godie to conform. This is fundamental to good organization, yet appears te be a basic weakness in this Agency. The delays in getting action er decision, mentioned above, I believe stem largely from uncertainty threughout the Agency as to individual missions, responsibilities, and authorities. Nothing could be more fatal to action. Decisions are "coordinated" and "cooperated" into oblivion when as indiv dust feeling of responsibility for such decisions would undoubted - presuce present results. Compartmentation, application of the *need-to-knes! security rule, aggravates this agoncy weakness. For usits operate tee much in a vacuum, ignorant as to where they are assuming some other unit's responsibilities, or when and where they should request advice, assistance, or support.
- d) Contributing to the paralysis of action, and allied to mission weakness, is evidence that the administrative (employ in this agency is not functioning, as it should in any organisation, soleho as a support for operations. Instead, administrative facisions, reviews, failures to support, or delays in supporting, in effort result in approval or disapproval of operations. The result of established administration can only be paralysis and ineffect iversely of operations.
- or filing within the Agency. This is so basic and privary a need as to be a prerequisite to improvement elsewhere. A minimum and vitally-maded goal is the espability throughout the Agency for writing letters and measurade and getting prompt probabiling in the form of written approvals or disapprovals or other elsew indications of motion taken. This obviously requires a filing system such that full records and references are readily available.
- e) I firsty believe that this Agency could not pass a besimple like analysis of its operations, a comparison of production were a expanditure and effort. And I believe that an intelligence organization, the like any other deverament organization, should be able to pass at a realistic business analysis. Each unit should be unalyzed as fellows: That is its mission? Responsibility? Authority? See that has it accomplished neterdingly, and in what suggest of ime, and with what effort and expenditure?

- g) Personnel morale, largely as a result of the above factors, aften drops the full scale to an unbelievable low, with result and less of enco-metivated personnel and conversion of the remaining to frustrated or resigned "workers for a living."
- possible. I am fully prepared to support each of my chaservations from my own limited experience in this Agency. I have no personal objective, either for myself, or against anyone else or any group or activity eithin this Agency. I have been so appalled at the evidence of the ineffi dency and ineffectiveness of this Agency that I consider the submission of this commentary to the Director as a patriotic duty.
